“ Co-Worker of Mr. Dunn's daughter Kelly. Condolences to the Dunn Family. For Kelly to be the way she is her Father had to be quite a man to have raised such a wonderful daughter. May God continue to grace the Dunn family with strength in these sad times. Joy will come in the morning.

Again, my deepest condolences to Kelly Dunn and the Dunn family.

“ I would like to extend condolences to the family of my dear friend, Lawrence Dunn. I met Lawrence in 1971 at Saint Paul's College. After graduating from college in 1975, I came to Washington, DC. The first person that I met while job hunting was none other than Lawrence. We exchanged our contact numbers and in a few days, I received a call from none other, his pal for life, Ralph and the rest is history. Lawrence accompanied Ralph on his first visit to ask me to be his lady. You can see the bond that ran between those two. Lawrence was the first voice that I heard in the morning and the last voice that I heard before going to bed at night, and please don't forget the calls during the day that they wanted to share a joke. On our road trips, they would talk almost all the way until we arrived at our destination. Please don't forget when Ralph would take me shopping and I would return back to the car none other than those two, I would hear roars of laughter. They were like peas and carrots. There are so many moments that we shared together, he was a groomsman in our wedding, the birth of our children, we shared family celebrations, birthdays, graduations, parties, and the list goes on. Through all of this, Lawrence became family. He was Uncle Lawrence to my children and grandchildren. He has been a friend from the beginning to the end. On Friday, June 12, I said to Ralph, “ I haven't heard from the Brown Man today, which I affectionately called him. The next call that we received was a call that changed our life forever. I will never forget the good times and laughter that we shared with my friend. So, little Luke so long till we meet again.

Love,
Your friend,
Lil Dobby
